THE FINAL CUT

Amber's Beauty School • November 2013

INTRODUCING:

Our New and Enhanced Website!

We are so excited to share with you the launch of our new website! Keeping our mantra of "Old School, New Style" in mind, we wanted to update our design without compromising content. This was easy to accomplish with the site's creator, Arrick Garringer of Windmill Marketing in Farmland, Indiana. Arrick and the Amber's team launched the site on October 23.

"When we decided to redesign the site, we wanted to focus on informing prospective students about the education they'd receive while here," owner Brian Shrieve explained, "Our website now shows (instead of just telling) much more about what it's like to be a student here at Amber's."

The new site has several new features including increased accessibility for instructors, clients and prospective students, a virtual tour, social media integration and information about tuition and registration. There's even a spot for online or tuition payments and appointment scheduling. Check out the changes at www.ambersbeautyschool.com!

NOVEMBER IS MEN'S HEALTH MONTH

Help us raise awareness about men's health this month by celebrating Movember! This movement encourages men to grow moustaches, or mo's, to generate conversations about prostate and testicular cancer. Beyond just men's physical health, Movember also promotes men's mental wellbeing and raises money for men's health research.

THE FINAL CUT

GUEST EDUCATOR

Vicki O'Connor with Davines

Davines Master Trainer Vicki O'Connor visited Amber's and worked with our students educating, presenting, and coaching for two days. In her time spent with us, she revealed an exciting new product, which included a special hands-on demonstration on a member of the Amber's team! O'Connor was introducing Davines' newest color line, Pure Color, to our students. More specifically, Vicki used the Mother of Pearl collection, which aims to create a light, reflective, mirror-like color. O'Connor demonstrated on Redhead Salon Boutique Stylist and Amber's Educator, Erin Cantrell, by mixing up color and applying it with a flamboyage technique in front of the students. Flamboyage uses sticky, clear strips that allow stylists to create more natural sections for highlights. The color may look shocking while it's processing, but the end result was subtle and elegant.
